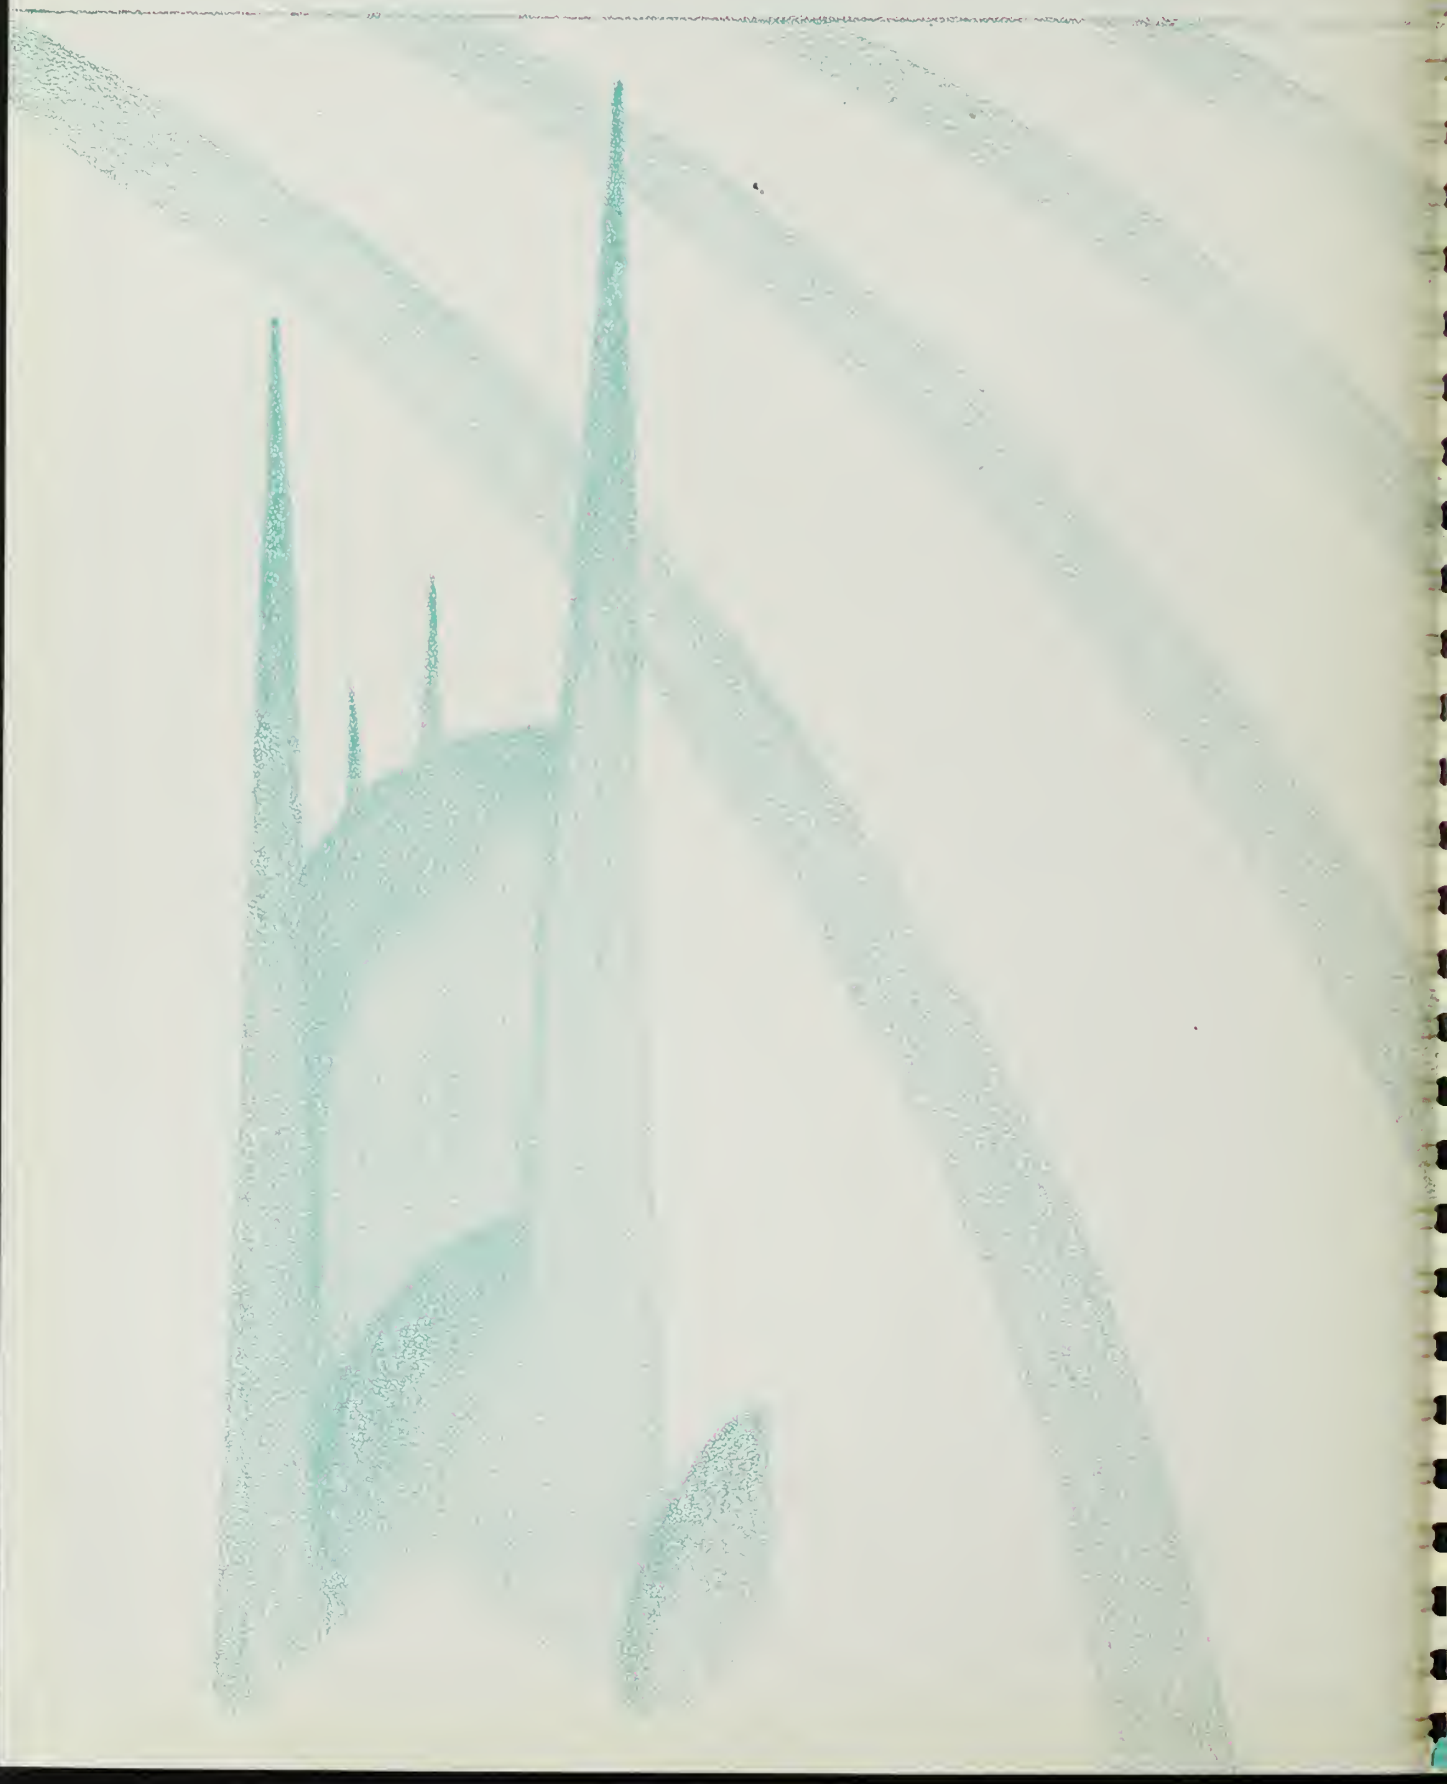
WITHIN OURSELVES



OUR FUTURE LIES

In this day of the Atom
Of Intercontinental Ballistics Missiles
Of the exploration of space
Of the political unrest among our planet's nations
In this time, rampant with fear and suspicion,
We, the young of America, at the start of our separate pursuits, know
It is through us, the youth of today,
That the tomorrow we desire may be attained:
For— "Within ourselves our future lies."

There are times . . .

THERE ARE TIMES in the passage of any year when it behooves each one of us to express thanks to those who have aided us all in our journey.

For their immeasurable, unstinted guidance and teaching we, the Yearbook staff and the Class of 1958, dedicate our Yearbook to Miss Martha Vining and Miss Ernestine Canning. We present this book as a tribute to their unselfish work on former Yearbooks and their sincere attention to the needs of us all.

PEACE

through EDUCATION

Education of the mind and reason,

Allowing us to perceive the Truth

And to achieve the Right.

administration

To the Graduation Class of 1958:

You could not have chosen truer words for your class motto — "Within ourselves the future lies."

If each one of you will fully appreciate the full meaning of the motto, you may achieve greatness, not only in regard to your personal life, but also in respect to the life of your country. Your country's future lies in your hands and you may make of it what you wish.

It is my sincere hope that the future will bring out the best in each of you, so that you may make America a still better place in which to live.

I wish you the best of health, happiness, and success.

Changing Education

Ann L. Doucette

SINCE THE phenomenal launching of Sputnik, American education has been under excessive scrutiny and criticism. No longer is the interest confined to the school or college, but it has become the topic of debate among many who believe that a thorough reorganization of the educational program is necessary for our survival.

The program of education in Russia has been most successful, having resulted in the training of young men of unusual genius. There, a far greater percentage of the national income is devoted to education than is applied to the improvement of living conditions. Children have accepted the difficult curricula in a ten-year system because of the exceptional honors given those of trained ability. Only thirty per cent of the ten-year graduates are accepted by the universities where they are trained to become specialists in definite fields. The major factor which led to the phenomenal development of this system was the determination of Russia to achieve superiority over all nations of the world.

Until now, it has been accepted that the present system of education in the United States has continuously solved all problems, providing the basic needs adequately and in copious fulfillment. President Eisenhower reveals his faith in the schools when he said: "Our system of universal education provides a means of developing individual capacities. It strengthens the stamina and value of the individual citizen. It possesses a far greater potential for the future development of America's strength than has yet been realized." It is not fair to blame the schools for the deficiency in the number of scientists and mathematicians when really the lack of foresight on the part of the government has caused the present emergency. Granted that the school curricula should be reorganized to help meet the immediate demands, but there are governmental branches that should have been alert and prepared to avoid such a crisis.

Although our education in science and mathematics is unquestionably important, other studies are equally essential to meet the present-day challenge. So much now lies in the field of human affairs, that the present urgency demands that we strengthen every aspect of that program. As set forth by the Educational Policies Commission: "The preservation of democracy, the building of a lasting peace, and the guarantee of respect for the dignity of each human being, all demand an education of such scope and diversity to enable every American child to rise to his own best potential."

Really there are four most important points that should be seriously considered for the desired improvement:

The teachers of the future should be chosen from the best in their respective fields and provided with the latest equipment.

The gifted child should have the opportunity to take special courses to challenge his intelligence.

All science courses should be made attractive, even if more difficult, and be introduced to children at an earlier age.

The scholarship standards should be securely fixed so that every student worthy of aid may receive the necessary financial assistance.

In order to remain the superior nation, we must immediately develop a genuine respect for the ability of the learned and the unusually brilliant. More must be offered students so that our country will be enabled to cope with the problems of the modern world. If the United States succeeds in the struggle for survival, much will be due to the capabilities of the educational program. Russia has made us realize what concentrated effort for a determined goal can achieve. Since our educational program has always been superior to theirs, certainly, with the same type effort, that superiority can be maintained.

The problem that now faces modern education is admirably explained by Oliver J. Caldwell of the United States Department of Health, Education, and Welfare when he states:

"The pressure of world affairs on our schools has created a number of new national educational problems. Our schools must prepare our people to play a new role of world leadership—on a new stage which includes the whole world, and to an audience which includes all of mankind."

Is Science The Answer?

Jane Hanabury

DURING THE past years, many critics have deplored the fact that in the United States there hasn't been the emphasis on the sciences that they have believed necessary to maintain world prestige. When Russia launched the first satellite, these alarmists rushed to the fore, demanding that we converge all our efforts on the technological aspects of progress. Yet should we not analyze the situation before making rash judgments or planning costly expenditures?

It is accepted that any fears of armed aggression by a satellite are unfounded. Dr. Joseph Kaplan, Chairman of the United States National Commitee for the International Geophysical Year, has stated that the launching of the first satellite is comparable to the achievement of nuclear fission. It is his belief that there is certainly no reason to worry about any foreign aggression by means of a satellite. He feels that the ordinary man should consider it an advance that has been successful so far and promises much for the future. Indeed, not only do we have nothing to fear from a satellite, but, according to Dr. John P. Hagen, Director of Project Vanguard, we should hope to gain valuable information in the fields of astronomy and geophysics, much on the make-up of the atmosphere, and accurate figures for the dimensions of the earth.

At this time we cannot help but wonder if Russia has actually surpassed the United States who has ever been the acknowledged leader in the Technological Age. Now since she has launched such a revolutionary program, should we immediately assume that we are hopelessly outdistanced technologically? Undoubtedly, in this one phase of science, Russia has temporarily outstripped us, but that fact does not intimate that we cannot achieve even more and continue to uphold our past position of superiority.

It is a conceded fact that Russia is producing more engineers than the United States, but we also know that her economic structure has become weighted with too many. There are just not enough positions open for the number of scientists and engineers trained in Russia each year. In addition, her educational system has become almost entirely unimaginative. In the words of Alexander G. Korol, a Russian-affairs specialist at M.I.T., "There seems to be a progressive paralysis of individual initiative which has been spreading through the entire Soviet educational fabric." On the other hand, in the United States we have been able to maintain the delicate economic balance necessary between the technological and the humanitarian. Perhaps we could now increase our emphasis on the sciences slightly, but a complete change would unquestionably be destructive rather than constructive.

Therefore, let us demand that our country concentrate on the sciences enough to maintain peace through a balance of power, but only as a temporary measure. At this same time, we should attempt to regain our enthusiasm for the humanities, our desire for peace, and the tolerance for the customs and beliefs of other countries. For if we attain an understanding of the nations of the world; if we can fully realize what problems they face and under what handicaps they labor; then, perhaps, our judgment of these nations will be more accurate.

Hence, if the United States can achieve these goals, then no longer will there be any need for a struggle for world supremacy. Every advance by an individual nation will then serve as a step forward for the whole world; it will be a link in unity, binding all nations to peace and serenity.

through EXPERIENCE

Experience, our tutor,

Teaching patience, sagacity, and fortitude—

Foundations to build upon.

We left the ninth grade,

almost losing ourselves

in the shuffle,

and football became

our big sport.

Our social outlook still remained sectional,

but our Sophomore outing

brought us together,

and some of us

saw each other throughout the summer.

Back again,

we had a perfect football season, 10-0,

met daily after school

just to talk,

and then came

the Thanksgiving Day party!

We met new friends

from Hull,

and when the weather grew warmer,

we had another outing.

Our senior year was a good year for football,

for some of our classmates,

and for the annual football assembly.

We saw

these boys at assemblies,

our king and queen

at the Victory Dance,

and these girls

wherever our team was playing.

Realizing we were soon to leave,

we began to observe

our daily routine

more closely,

and then, finally,

we held our last class party.

Now we review these three years,

Left to right: Mrs. Adeline Wolfe, Mrs. Maudena Embree, Mrs. Mary Phillips, Mrs. Mildred Cavanaugh, Mrs. Ragnhild Swanson, Mrs. Hazel Mell, Mrs. Josephine Wheeler, Mrs. Elizabeth Matheson, Mrs. Frances Laniewski.

proud of our accomplishments,

grateful

to our friends and helpers,

and, yet,

on Graduation Day it is difficult to look upon Weymouth High School for the last time as a student.

through PARTICIPATION

Participation in events of our interest;

Welcoming the give and take of companionship;

Striving to live worthily in society.

THE YEARBOOK STAFF: Jane Hanabury, Editor-in-Chief; Marilyn Fulton, Art Editor; Peter Luoma and Thomas Winkler, Assistant Editors; Judith Perrow and Judith Petze, Assistant Art Editors.

The Yearbook staff for the first time included several members of the Junior class, as it was felt the experience they would gain would be invaluable in the preparation of their own yearbook next year. Also an innovation was the appointment of a representative for the Yearbook staff from each Senior home room.

We of the Yearbook staff would like to thank our advisers, Miss Andem and Miss Silvester, and all those who assisted us with their time, effort, and confidence.

Undoubtedly one of the most important and active organizations in Weymouth High School is the Student Council. This year, in addition to their many regular projects such as dances and school services, the Student Council in co-operation with the Weymouth Youth Commission conducted a survey among high school students to determine what types of activities they would enjoy during weekends and vacations. This survey will be used as the basis for a recreation program in Weymouth. Student Council members attended three conventions where they participated in conferences in which the problems of Student Council were discussed and different ideas were exchanged among the schools.

The 1958 REFLECTOR staff has had a very successful year. Many changes took place under the guidance of Miss Andem, Miss Silvester, and Mr. Collins. The size of the REFLECTOR was increased to that of the Yearbook. Obligatory REFLECTOR assignments were abolished, and the staff solicited much of its material directly from the student body. Pupils who like to write provided more poems, stories, essays, and puzzles than could be used. The seniors were responsible for the Christmas issue; the juniors, for the St. Patrick's Day issue; and the sophomores, for the Graduation issue.

MATH CLUB

THE OFFICERS: Kenneth Hawes, President; Thomas Winkler, Vice-President; Diane Pannier, Secretary.

In its second year the Math Club was once again active and successful. Thanks and appreciation go to Mr. Raymond, the Advisor, whose ability and imagination have much to do with the success of the club. This year members busied themselves with several aspects of mathematics that are not included in the ordinary textbook course. Naturally the advent of Sputnik provided some interesting observations and often members departed from a meeting, their heads awhirl with the intricacies of the binomial system or the almost impossible number puzzles.

THE OFFICERS: Claire Goldthwaite, President; Constance Carino, Vice-President; Cynthia Carlson, Secretary; Joyce Abruzzese, Treasurer.

Composed of students who have an interest in library work and some who just like to read, the Library Club helps to maintain the neatness and efficiency of the school library. Under the direction of Miss Gloster, school librarian and Library Club Adviser, club members learn some of the details of library procedure.

This year the Library Club visited the Christian Science Monitor building, held its annual Christmas party, attended the play "No Time for Sergeants," and enjoyed an outing at the end of the year.

ORATORICAL CONTEST

THIS YEAR, for the first time, there were two winners, as the annual American Legion Oratorical Contest was sponsored by two Legion Posts, the George R. Bean Post Number 401 and Weymouth Post Number 79. The winners, Francis Anglin and Patricia Jack, were selected from the six semi-finalists. Francis spoke on the Constitution as "The Greatest Experiment" and Patricia compared our country to an orchestra in which each person must play his part or bring discord into "The Unfinished Symphony," our nation's history. Other semi-finalists were Katherine Batchelder, Nancy Lee, Richard Osgood, and William Salisbury. With the aid of Mr. William Kearns and Mr. William Longridge, each contestant wrote and delivered an oration worthy of praise.

Patricia Jack brought honor to her school by placing second in the district contest. Congratulations!

THE OFFICERS: Cynthia Johnston, President; Gail Loud, Vice-President; Dianne MacKinnon, Secretary; Janice Ingham, Treasurer; Rhodena Watt, Refreshment Chairman.

Spanish Club met the second Wednesday of every month. Being in earnest about learning the language, club members always conducted their business meetings entirely in Spanish. Such a practice gives good experience in listening, interpreting, and speaking. Some of the highlights of the year included a vocabulary game in Spanish, the Christmas party with the traditional pinata, and a talk by the student teacher, Miss Keefe, who discussed the possible vocations a Spanish language students may enter. Thanks to the advisers, Mrs. Derry and Mrs. Bedell, the club enjoyed an active, successful year.

FUTURE BUSINESS LEADERS

THE OFFICERS: Joan Cirigliano, President; Patricia Bowman and Lois MacLeod, Vice-Presidents; Geraldine Osborn, Secretary; Elizabeth Schauer, Treasurer.

This year the business club has entertained a twofold purpose: to help its members (1) develop a knowledge of business world and (2) decide what phase of business they would like to enter. Under the direction of Miss Dorothy MacGregor, Adviser, programs were planned with these goals in mind. Club members enjoyed visits from representatives of various businesses who explained the many different facets of their particular fields. Among these speakers was a representative from the telephone company, an insurance firm, a bank, and a radio station.

THE OFFICERS: Nancy Elliott, President; Sheila Woodworth, Vice-President; Holly Stoner, Secretary; Kathleen Davis, Treasurer.

Under the direction of Miss Pearson club members developed their year's program around a basic theme: the teacher's role in passing down culture to each generation. The club enjoyed many interesting speakers. Mrs. Elliott spoke on first grade teaching. Mr. Nelson explained methods of teaching in the field of agriculture. Miss Gallant found time in her busy schedule to describe the rewards and pitfalls of teaching in general. And Miss McGovern explained just exactly how to "put your subject across." Future Teachers feel that their year has been a busy and successful one.

FUTURE NURSES

THE OFFICERS: Theresa Mazzola, President; Donna Wilson, Vice-President; Carol Guinette, Treasurer; Barbara Gould, Corresponding Secretary.

The purpose of this club is to stimulate interest in the nursing profession. Under the expert leadership of Miss Stockwell, Adviser, and an excellent slate of officers, Future Nurses enjoyed an inspiring and successful year. Guest speakers included student nurses, a visiting teacher, and an African missionary nurse. Field trips to nearby hospitals were enlightening. Several of the club members played an active part in the tuberculosis X-ray clinic, serving as registrars when the X-raymobile visited Weymouth High School.

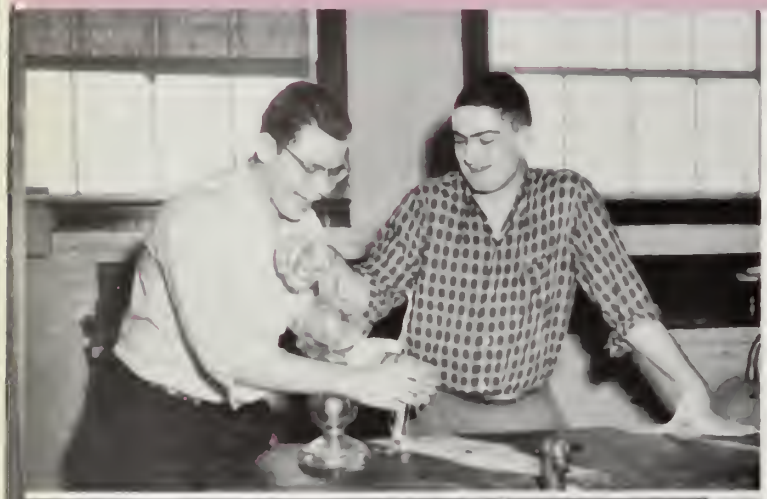
ON THE snowy weekend of March twenty-first everyone at Weymouth High was happy to learn that Kitty Drake (Jackie Query) and her cousin Adele Warren (Janice Ingham) had inherited their uncle's dude ranch at Cross Road Canyon, Colorado. Being impetuous, Kitty left her job and took the first bus West. How discouraged she was when she arrived at the defunct ranch! But Kitty had an idea — if only she could get some capital to repair her ranch. At this point she met Carleton Up de Graff (Keith Larson) who, being a banker's son, was the perfect foil for Kitty's enterprise. With an adequate loan from Bramwell Up de Graffs's (Bruce Avery's) bank, using Carleton's name as a co-signer on the note, she turned her inheritance into the attractive Uranium Dude Ranch. Although Custer Henshaw (Robert Minnis), the sheriff, declared Kitty's advertising brochures illegal, an ad in the papers attracted three young girls, Jane Arnold (Patricia Jack), Mary Cooper (Sheila Natale), Helen Kruger (Roberta Nicholson), and Harriet Baker (Mary Ann Santacroce), who was on a husband-hunting expedition. Life was looking brighter as Tullina L'Amour (Joyce Seeley), a TV actress, and her director, Kent Tyler (Robert Norcross), made reservations. Suddenly Bramwell Up de Graff stormed in, accused Kitty of forcing his son to sign the note and declared the ranch would be foreclosed if Kitty couldn't raise the money by Monday.

It took some clever planning on Kitty's part to wiggle out of this dilemma. Burt Holbrook (Rogers Chase) and Bob Granger (William Fairbanks) found themselves involved along with Big Wind (Russell Ritchie), and Starlight (Jacqueline Booth), his squaw. Millie Fisher (Joan Carroll), the cook, and Clem Wagner (Donald Cody), coachman, groom, and handyman, contributed to the merriment. Welcome visitors from Weymouth were Jack Smith and members of his orchestra: Jack Costa, Walter Heffernan, Karl Klasson, and George Peterson. Laura Hunter (Nancy Lee) contributed to the fun.

"All's well that ends well!" and a surprising climax brought howls of laughter from the audience and applause well earned by the young Weymouth actors.

LAB ASSISTANTS, O.I.G.Y.



THE MAINSTAYS of all our science courses are our lab assistants. Working in both the physics and chemistry labs, they are responsible for the general upkeep and the cataloging of lab equipment. William Salisbury is the student in charge of the lab assistants under the direction of Mr. Lyons. These students find time to carry on their own experimenting on the side and, who knows, from these humble beginnings we may gain another Einstein or Newton!

In conjunction with the International Geophysical Year, Mr. Ghiorse has organized a club formally termed as Observers of the International Geophysical Year or, to be brief, the O.I.G.Y. Club members have visited M.I.T. and have performed numerous experments concerning all phases of science.

A. V. CLUB

WEYMOUTH HIGH is thankful to the A. V. Club for its many skilled operators of the audio-visual equipment. We found our classes and extra-curricular activities made more interesting and varied through motion pictures, film strips, records, and tape recordings; and we know that no assembly or dance was ever held without at least one A. V. member in the background. This year the club was headed by two seniors, Roy Eaton and Dave Mahn, both of whom have been in A. V. work since junior high.

AN INTEGRAL part of Weymouth High are the blue-clad figures engrossed in a spirited athletic contest. At almost any time of year you can see these girls enjoying an exciting game whether it be field hockey or softball at Libby Field or one of the many indoor sports. Instructed enthusiastically by Miss Arnold and Mrs. Olson, the girls may take part in field hockey, volleyball, basketball, badminton, softball, and tennis.

THE MUSICAL organizations at Weymouth High experienced another active year. All three groups, the orchestra and chorus under Mr. Jack's direction, and the band under Mr. Warren's direction, met five days a week.

The band was especially busy during the football season, drilling for its weekly exhibition. The chorus performed at the Christmas assembly. Both band and orchestra found time to participate in various parades and festivals during the school year. Members from all three groups attended the Massachusetts All State Festival and the New England Music Festival, wonderful experiences both musically and socially.

A red letter day came for the band when members sported their new uniforms at the annual spring concert.

OUR CHEERLEADERS and majorettes, always the most spirited groups in school, have cheered our football, basketball, and track teams on to victory. Under the leadership of Head Cheerleader, Patricia McMorrow, the girls have responded conscientiously and nobly! They are as follows: W — Roberta Nicholson; E — Tucket Batchelder; Y—Donna Peterson; M—Irene Bush; O—Joan Carroll; U — Natale Shober; T — Bonnie Tirrell; H — Susan Vedoe. Rhodena Watt, Sandra Russell, Susan Barnes, and Mary Ellen Grant were the subs. Also helping with the cheering were mascots Claire Johnson and Paul McMorrow.

THIS YEAR our football team under Coach Jackie Fisher had a season of which it may well be proud. Defeating such teams as Quincy, Medford, Somerville, Chelsea, and our arch Thanksgiving Day rival, Brockton, the team racked up an enviable record. Our co-captains, Vic DiGravio and Dick Laine, led our team wisely and well and were backed by a squad that proved its worth during a long and tough season. The seniors on the squad are James Brown, Vic DiGravio, Richard Dorey, Thomas Granai, Richard Jones, Richard Laine, George Nystrom, William Pagnano, Richard Pierce, William Hay, William Jones, and John Player.

UNDER OUR new coach, Mr. Lordi, the basketball team enjoyed a successful year, completing its first season in the Greater Boston League with a 12-6 record. The season was exciting from start to finish, but the real thriller was the last game with Medford, which we needed to win to enter the Tech Tourney. Down by four points with a minute and a half to go, it was only the time-outs and the plays so skillfully employed by the team that enabled us to win this all important game. The senior members of the basketball team are Donald Cody, Vicker DiGravio, Paul Gammell, Alan Kemp, Richard Laine, George Nystrom, John Stewert, and Alexander Urbanowicz.

HOCKEY

THE HOCKEY TEAM, enjoying its best season yet, ranked fourth in the South Shore League with a record of four wins and three losses. In the playoffs the squad tied for third place with two losses and an exciting tie game with Scituate. Mr. Dempsey has done a fine job of coaching this sport, a relatively new one at Weymouth High School. As only a few players graduate in June, next season should also be a good one. The senior members of the hockey team are Robert Healy, Francis Healy, Frank Rand, Joseph Rizzo, David Barry, and John Player.

AGRICULTURE

AGRICULTURE is another field in which Weymouth boys may be trained as the high school houses a branch of the Norfolk County Agriculture School. Boys electing this course gain invaluable experience in preparation for various agricultural pursuits, eventually majoring in one area of their choice. During the school year they study the care of plants and livestock; and during the summer months they work in nurseries or on farms throughout New England. The summer job is an integral part of the agriculture program, for advisers visit and grade the boys on their summer work.

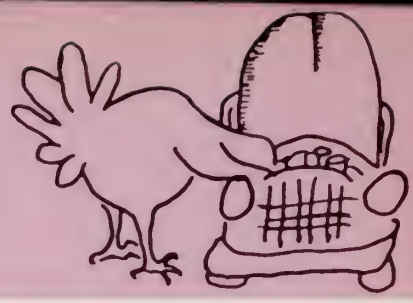
AUTO MECHANICS



THE SERVICES of our Automobile Shop are constantly in demand. Here future mechanics are trained in all phases of automobile repair. They learn how to spot trouble quickly and how best to correct the difficulty once it has been diagnosed. The steady stream of satisfied customers waiting for service provides the boys with ample opportunity to put their theory into practice. Their course of study includes also an examination of the newest developments and improvements in engine design.

PRINTING

IN THE Printing Department the boys are trained not only in the operation of presses, hand-fed and automatic, but also in the use of the linotype, the ludlow, and other machines such as the stitcher and the folding machine. This shop is the busiest spot in the Weymouth school system, bar none! Young printers produce the REFLECTOR, the Yearbook, a multitudinous number of tickets, posters, brochures, and handle virtually all the printing required by the Superintendent's Office.

We of the Yearbook staff would especially like to thank the boys of the Printing Department for the work they have done on this year's issue.

CABINETMAKING

TO EYE the work of our Cabinet Making Shop is a pleasure. Students here turn out products that are skillfully built and carefully finished. Some boys construct furniture for the house being built by the carpentry students. Others fill orders of various types that come in from the schools. Thus a variety of jobs provide these students with an excellent background for their chosen vocation of cabinet making.

A door incorrectly fitted is forever a problem! Nick DeToma and William Hay work on the fan shaped window.

Measurement has to be exact in cabinet making. David Barry checks a measurement.

CARPENTRY

EACH YEAR students in the carpentry course at Weymouth Vocational School construct a house from the foundation up. In the course of this construction, each boy learns the ins and outs of building every part of the house. This is training that teaches him many tricks of the trade. With the detail and care that building this house entails it is certain that no boy who participates will be unprepared for his future as a carpenter.

through PRAYER

A silent prayer, a humble wish

May it bring serenity and peace

To ourselves, our nation, our world.

Senior Class Prayer

DEAR LORD and Father of Mankind.

As we stand before Thee and the world, assembled together for the last time, on this, our Graduation Day, may we never forget that all that we are and have we owe to Thee.

Help us to know that Thou will always stand beside us wherever we may be. Help us to help ourselves throughout every moment of our lives.

We give Thee thanks, Gracious Father, for the numerous opportunities that have been presented to us. May we truly appreciate Thy gifts.

In the midst of all our plans and activities, make us realize that without Thy guidance all would be in vain.

As we walk along life's road, help us not to fall by the wayside because difficulties seem to overwhelm us. May we know that we have only to lift our eyes heavenward, utter a silent prayer, and continue to strive for the right, for Thou will always answer.

We thank Thee, too, for our years at Weymouth High School. May we remember in the years to come the many times we passed our beloved Cross of Gray and the pleasant hours we have spent under the protection of its shadow.

Cleanse our hearts of any grudges we may hold so that we shall start out on the road ahead with light hearts and open minds.

And be it Thy will, Blessed Lord, that our great country, under our leadership, may prosper and grow in the way of truth and right.

This we ask in Thy name.

Amen.

SHOPPING FOR A JOB?

CHECK WHAT YOU WANT:

- ☐ Good starting salary with regular raises
- ☐ Pleasant work with other girls and young men
- ☐ Prestige of a responsible job with a well-known and respected company

If your list shows three checks, then you should check into what the Telephone Company has to offer you. Smart girls are doing it now, before they graduate from high school. Come in and see our employment interviewer soon. You'll enjoy talking with her.

Act now, and you can say with pride, "I'm all set! I'm going to work with the Telephone Company!"

See the Guidance Counselor at your school, and talk first with her about when and where to apply.
